

Guidelines for Contributors

The Journal of Southeast Asian Language Teaching publishes articles, review articles, book reviews, multimedia reviews, bibliographies, and reports on any aspect of language teaching of general interest and on topics in Southeast Asian languages, literatures, and cultures of particular interest to teachers of these languages. This includes materials for classroom use.

Manuscripts of articles should be sent in THREE hard copies to the editor of the Journal (Carol J. Compton, 3301 Westview Lane, Madison, WI 53713). All articles submitted will be blindly and anonymously refereed. Upon acceptance, the editor will also request a copy in computer-readable form. Those wishing to contribute reviews should submit TWO hard copies as well as a computer-readable copy.

Hard copies should be typed double-spaced with 1 ¼ '' margins. Pages should be numbered. Give English glosses and translations for all other language examples. Examples in languages with a non-roman script should be given in a standard transliteration or transcription. Thai and Lao scripts can be used in addition. Other language scripts, such as Vietnamese, may be available; check with the editor. Citations should be given in the text as 'Author (date)' or "(Author, date)" rather than in notes. Endnotes or footnotes may be used for other purposes.

You may also send your article to the editor in an MS-Word document in one of the following ways: as a disk, as a cd, and/or as an email attachment to this internet address: parishcompton@gmail.com
